Question 9 Relationship to Scientology-related organizations

a* Please describe the relationship between IAS and Scientology-related organizations, as well as the relationship of IAS parishioners. For example, please include in this description the benefits of membership in IAS, including any discount or other benefit available with respect to the receipt and/or purchase of services or products from Scientology-related organizations include all Class V Churches and Missions, regardless of vhether the entity was listed in question 1. Please include representative documentation of the relationships described in your response to this question*

The IAS is a voluntary membership association formed to promote and preserve the Scientology religion worldwide. It is an unincorporated religious membership association composed of individuals, churches of Scientology and national associations of Scientologists, The IAS is not part of the Church of Scientology hierarchy. It has its own separate Board of Directors elected annually from among its members, and it functions autonomously from CSI and the rest of the Church hierarchy. CSI, acting in its capacity as the Mother Church, adopted the IAS as the official membership organization for the Church of Scientology in 1984. The purposes of IAS are to assure the continued practice and expansion of Scientology throughout the world, to assist Churches of Scientology when needed, and to maintain communications with Scientologists on matters of common concern.

Benefits of membership in the IAS:

1. Membership card identifying him/her as a member.

2. IMPACT Magazine, issued 6 times per year.

3. Special Publications.

4. Information summaries to keep members abreast of international developments in Scientology.

5. Invitations to events sponsored by the IAS.

6. Participation in IAS Award Games.

7. Participation in IAS projects to assist in the expansion of Scientology around the world.

Benefits extended to members of the IAS bv Scientology Churches:

While CSI advises subordinate churches to extend the following benefits to IAS members, Churches do not generally check for IAS membership. As a result, all Scientology parishioners are routinely afforded these benefits.

8. Certificates in force.

9. Participation as a Field Staff Member and Field Auditor.

10. Training Scholarship Awards and Professional Rates on processing.

11. Discount of 20 percent on donations requested for religious services at Churches of Scientology.

12. Discount of 20 percent on Church of Scientology bookstore items.

13. Discount of 50 percent on "I Want To Go OT" Club membership fee.

Representative documentation is attached as Exhibit II-9-A.

Question 9

o. Is membership in IAS solicited at or through the auspices of any Scientology-related organizations? If so,, please describe the method of solicitation, any documentation regarding the solicitation, and the period of time during which such solicitations have occurred.

Scientologists who are members of the IAS encourage fellow Scientologists to join the Association wherever they come in contact, including Churches of Scientology. In addition, Church staff members, all of whom are IAS members, encourage new parishioners to join the IAS on an introductory basis. The IAS offers a free six-month introductory membership to all Scientologists.

Since the formation of the IAS in 1984 and its recognition by CSI as the official membership association of the Church of Scientology, CSI has encouraged all Scientology-related organizations to help expand the membership of the IAS. CSI has done this in a variety of ways, including sponsoring membership drives, issuing policy statements regarding membership, and directing all Churches of Scientology to include a "membership officer" on staff. The membership officer ordinarily assumes this title as part of another staff position in the Church and is the individual Scientologists can contact for information about the IAS and membership applications. Churches of Scientology around the world often place advertisements in their local Scientology publications promoting membership in the IAS.

The only documentation used in soliciting members to the IAS are Membership application forms, a copy of which was provided in response to question 9a, above. IAS applications are not submitted to Churches of Scientology. They are forwarded directly to the IAS for acceptance.

Question 9

d. Are donations to or for the benefit of IAS solicited at or through the auspices of any Scientology-related organizations? If SO/ please describe the method of solicitation/ provide documentation regarding the solicitation/ and describe the period of time during which such solicitations occurred.

Donations above the amount of the annual and lifetime membership dues are in almost all cases solicited by the Membership Tours (discussed at page 2 of the supplemental letter from Monique Yingling regarding IHU). The Membership Tours generally do not solicit donations on the premises of Churches of Scientology, however, such contact may occur as some Membership Tours have office space located in Churches of Scientology, Neither CSI staff nor the staff of other Scientology-related organizations is ordinarily involved in the solicitation of such donations.

CSI Prod 11-4-93 151950

[OCRED PARTS UNCHECKED FOR SPELLING OR OTHER RECOGNITION ERRORS]

p. Does any Scientology-related organisation provide (or in the past provided) office space or staff for, or directly or indirectly pay expenses (or subsidize the costs) of, any solicitations for membership in or donations to IAS?

As discussed in the response to "c" above, at the direction of CSI, Churches of Scientology generally have a "membership officer" who provides information on the IAS to Church parishioners.

Membership Tours with office space located in Churches of Scientology generally pay rent to the Church for the space used. The Membership Tour for Germany has paid rent to the Church of Scientology Munich since 1990. We have been unable to ascertain whether the Munich Church charged any rent in earlier years. The Denmark Membership Tour has paid rent for the office space it uses in the Danish Church for the last 18 months. Before that time, we understand there was no rent charged by the Church. The Italy Membership Tour (located in the Milan Church) has recently paid rent. Until recently, no rent was charged by the Milan Church. The Clearwater Membership Tour has always paid rent to Church of Scientology Flag Service Organization for the space it uses. The Swiss Membership Tour has always paid rent to the Church in Zurich. The United Kingdom Membership Tour, Canada Membership Tour, and Japan Membership Tour, have also paid rent, The Church of Scientology in New York provides a small work room for the Membership Tour of the Eastern United States at no charge when that Tour is in New York. The Western United States Membership Tour does not use space on Church property.

Question 9

f. Does IAS have (at present or in the past) any direct or indirect relationship/ financial or otherwise, to the ownership or operation of the H.V. rreewinds, or any entity related to the ownership or operation of the ship? Please include in your response the role, if any, of IAS in purchasing or financing of the M.v. Freewinds.

The IAS was involved in the initial fund raising for the search and purchase of an ocean-going motor vessel to be used as a religious retreat for Scientologists. The IAS directly sponsored this project from late 1984 to early 1986. In early 1986, this project was assumed by the Flag Ship Trust. The IAS fully funded the costs of the ship project throughout 1985 and 1986. In addition, between 1985 and 1988, the IAS paid fundraising commissions and some operating costs of the Ship Project. The amounts expended by the IAS with respect to the Ship Project are as follows;

1985	$ 26,477.00
1986	$ 746,630.00
1987	$ 543,565.00
1988	$ 42,207.00

IAS Administrations currently operates aboard the M.V. Freewinds and pays rent on a weekly basis to Majestic Cruise Lines for the space occupied.

Question 9

h. Please describe CSI's recognition of IAS as the sole worldwide membership organization for Scientology parishioners, is there any written agreement or other document regarding this recognition? If so, please provide a copy, otherwise, please provide a description regarding such recognition, including the terms of any oral agreement. Has CSI or any other Scientology-related organization recognized any membership organization/ e.g, country-wide or continent-wide membership organizations (other than DAS or EAS)? If so, please list and describe*

After the IAS was formed and had stated its purpose "To unite, advance, support and protect Scientology and Scientologists in all parts of the world so as to achieve the aims and purposes of Scientology," CSI determined to support the IAS fully in its crusade and the fight for religious freedom. CSI elected to recognize membership in the IAS as the official membership for its parishioners.

CSI and the former Mother Church of the Scientology religion, Church of Scientology of California, previously recognized the Hubbard Association of Scientologists International ("HASI") as the official membership of the Church. Lifetime members of HASI receive the same benefits the Church extends to IAS members.

In addition to DAS and EAS there are other national Scientology membership associations required by local laws. For example, the Church of Scientology in Germany is a membership association.

Relevant documentation regarding CSI's recognition of IAS as the official membership organization of Scientologists is attached as Exhibit II-9-D.

Question 9

i. Does IAS use any intangible or intellectual property, including any trademarks, service aarfcs, logos, copyrights/ patents, or other property that is owned by any Scientology-related organization? Please separately indicate which/ if any of this property is owned by Estate of L. Ron Hubbard, Authors Family Trust or Author Services/ Inc. If IAS uses property, does IAS pay for such use?

CSI's trademark counsel has advised that the IAS does not "use" the Scientology trademarks or service marks: "Technically, the IAS does not use any of the trademarks or service marks of Religious Technology Center. The word "use" is a technical word in the trademark law (15 U.S.C Section 1127) and does not include mere references to the marks in [the] magazine, IMPACT, and other literature.[11] RTC, the owner of the Scientology religious marks, has never licensed IAS as a user of the marks. Relevant correspondence acknowledging IAS's reference to the marks in its literature is attached as Exhibit II-9-E.

IAS regularly reprints portions of the Scientology Scriptures that are copyrighted and owned by the Author's Family Trust in IMPACT magazine and other literature. The Trustee has acknowledged copyrighted materials are used by the IAS, but never required a license or payment for such limited use.

Question 9

c. Describe the role, if any, that Scientology-related organizations playad in the creation and start-up of I AS, including but not United to, any financial or facility support.

At the time the IAS was formed in 1984, Scientologists in the United States and around the world found themselves under attack because of their religious beliefs. Believing that there might come a time when Scientology was so oppressed they would no longer be able to continue to practice and disseminate the religion of Scientology, individual Scientologists founded the Association in order to assure the survival of their religion and to guarantee that Scientology could be practiced for all time. To this end, the IAS Constitution provides that the Association shall not take any action which would subject it to the jurisdiction of any country which tolerates the oppression of any religion* Thus, the IAS is constituted as an unincorporated association of individual Scientologists from around the world. It is because the IAS guarantees the future of Scientology that individuals support the Association both financially and through membership activities.

. The IAS was formed in October 1984 at the initiative of individual Scientologists who were parishioners of the Church of Scientology Advanced Organization Saint Hill for Europe & Africa (AOSH EU) located in Denmark. AOSH EU communicated the idea for the IAS to other Scientology Churches in Europe and America and to CSI who accepted it with enthusiasm. AOSH EU then sent out an invitation, along with a draft Constitution for the IAS, to twenty Churches of Scientology around the world requesting that Delegates be sent to the United Kingdom to convene the Founding Convention of the IAS on October 7 and 8, 1984. These individuals became the founding members of the IAS, approved and adopted its Constitution and signed the Pledge to Mankind.

AOSH EU paid some DKr 400,000 to cover expenses of some of the founding members who traveled to the UK, and to organize the event in England. Other Churches of Scientology around the world also paid expenses of Delegates to the Convention. Church of Scientology Flag Service Organization helped to defray the expenses of an event held in Florida in October 1984 to introduce the IAS to US parishioners. Similiar events were sponsored by other Churches of Scientology around the world.

Question 9

g. Please describe the management structure of IAS, including the names of those who manage the affairs of IAS or sit on the governing body or bodies of the entity. To what extent are Scientology-related organizations involved in or represented in IAS? Please describe the selection of delegates and officers in IAS. Please include in your response the governing documents of IAS as in effect on the date of this letter,

In accordance with its Constitution, the International Association of Scientologists is governed by a Board of Directors, originally elected by the Delegates to the founding convention. Annual Delegates are selected by Churches of Scientology in accordance with Article VII of the Constitution. The Constitution provides that the Board of Directors shall adopt Rules (which must be consistent with the Constitution) for the governance of the IAS, the conduct of its activities and the qualifications, rights, privileges and duties of its members. The Board exercises general oversight over the operations of the two corporations it has contracted with to administer its activities, IAS Administrations and Theta Management Limited. The Board ensures that the Constitution of the IAS is followed and sets the location of each annual Convention of Delegates. The IAS Delegates establish the time of the next Convention of Delegates. Each year, the Delegates decide the Association's goals for the coming year.

The current members of the Board of Directors of the IAS are:

Ms. Maureen Brigatti, Australia
Ms. Pauline Chatterton, New Zealand
Mr. Carl Heldt, Sweden
Ms. Janet Light, United Kingdom
Mr. Marc Yager, United States

The Delegates to the most recent annual Convention of Delegates were:

Ms. Valerie Rollins, Africa
Ms. Sue McClintock, Australia
Ms. Gabrielle Rupp, Austria
Mr. Pascal Carminati, Belgium and Luxembourg
Ms. Marina Mackie, Canada
Ms. Ditte Nielsen, Denmark

The information requested regarding IAS receipts and expenditures is voluminous and not readily available to CSI or any other Scientology-related organization* Accordingly, csi is providing IAS receipts and expenditure information from 1989 forward, the same period of time to which susbstantially all of the Service's requests for financial information relate.

a. Please list all transfers of funds, property (of whatever kind) or other assets from any Scientology-related organisation to IAS. This list should include the amount or fair market value transferred, the purpose, the date and the transferor's name.

During the period January 1, 1989 to December 31, 1991, the only transfers of funds, property or other assets to the IAS from Scientology-related organizations were payments for advertisements in IMPACT magazine. In consideration for these payments, the various Churches and church-related organizations have had promotional materials included in IMPACT. Since 1991, payments for advertisements in IMPACT have been made directly to IAS Administrations. A detailed list of the advertisement payments follows:

b. Please list all expenditures after December 31/ 1986/ by IAS, or at the direction of IAS, to any individual affiliated vith a Scientology-related organization or for any facility or asset, where the use or proceeds of such facility or asset are of benefit to any Scientology-related organisation. The following expenditures need not be listed: (i) expenditures to individuals of the aggregate payment to the individual and his or her family members does not exceed $10,000 over the entire period under discussion; and (ii) expenditures to a particular Scientology-related organization if the aggregate payment to the organisation does not exceed $50,000 over the entire period under discussion*

PAYMENTS TO INDIVIDUALS OF $10,000 OR MORE

The IAS pays fundraising commissions to individual Scientologists around the world who help raise funds for the Association by soliciting new members and donations. For the most part, the only affiliation these individuals have with Scientology-related organizations is the fact that they are Scientologists. However, Church staff may also receive commissions from the IAS. Neither CSI nor any other Scientology-related organization had information regarding the payment of commissions to individual Scientologists in its possession. In order to provide a complete response to this question, CSI requested this information of the IAS.

Question 9

g. Please describe the management structure of IAS, including the names of those who manage the affairs of IAS or sit on the governing body or bodies of the entity. To what extent are Scientology-related organizations involved in or represented in IAS? Please describe the selection of delegates and officers in IAS. Please include in your response the governing documents of IAS as in effect on the date of this letter.

In accordance with its Constitution, the International Association of Scientologists is governed by a Board of Directors, originally elected by the Delegates to the founding convention. Annual Delegates are selected by Churches of Scientology in accordance with Article VII of the Constitution. The Constitution provides that the Board of Directors shall adopt Rules (which must be consistent with the Constitution) for the governance of the IAS, the conduct of its activities and the qualifications, rights, privileges and duties of its members. The Board exercises general oversight over the operations of the two corporations it has contracted with to administer its activities, IAS Administrations and Theta Management Limited* The Board ensures that the Constitution of the IAS is followed and sets the location of each annual Convention of Delegates. The IAS Delegates establish the time of the next Convention of Delegates. Each year, the Delegates decide the Association's goals for the coming year.

The current members of the Board of Directors of the IAS are:

Ms. Maureen Brigatti, Australia
MS Pauline Chatterton, New Zealand
Mr, Carl Heldt, Sweden Janet
Ms, Light, United Kingdom
Mr. Marc Yager, United States

The Delegates to the most recent annual Convention of Delegates were:

Question 9 Relationship to Scientology-related organizations

a. Please describe tbe relationship between IAS and Scientology-related organizations, as well as the relationship of IAS parishioners. For example, please include in this description the benefits of membership in IAS, including any discount or other benefit available with respect to the receipt and/or purchase of services or products from Scientology-related organizations include all Class V Churches and Missions/ regardless of whether the entity was listed in question i. Please include representative documentation of the relationships described in your response to this question.

The IAS is a voluntary membership association formed to promote and preserve the Scientology religion worldwide. It is an unincorporated religious membership association composed of individuals, churches of Scientology and national associations of Scientologists. The IAS is not part of the Church of Scientology hierarchy. It has its own separate Board of Directors elected annually from among its members, and it functions autonomously from CSI and the rest of the Church hierarchy. CSI, acting in its capacity as the Mother Church, adopted the IAS as the official membership organization for the Church of Scientology in 1984. The purposes of IAS are to assure the continued practice and expansion of Scientology throughout the world, to assist Churches of Scientology when needed, and to maintain communications with Scientologists on matters of common concern.

Benefits of membership in the IAS:

1. Membership card identifying him/her as a member.

2. IMPACT Magazine, issued 6 times per year.

3. Special Publications.

4. Information summaries to keep members abreast of international developments in Scientology.

5. Invitations to events sponsored by the IAS.

6. Participation in IAS Award Games.

7. participation in IAS projects to assist in the expansion of Scientology around the world.

CSI Prod 11-4-93 151944

[OCRED PARTS UNCHECKED FOR SPELLING OR OTHER RECOGNITION ERRORS]

Benefits extended to members of the IAS by Scientology Churches:

While CSI advises subordinate churches to extend the following benefits to IAS members, Churches do not generally check for IAS membership. As a result, all Scientology parishioners are routinely afforded these benefits.

8. Certificates in force.

9. Participation as a Field Staff Member and Field Auditor,

10. Training Scholarship Awards and Professional Rates on processing.

11. Discount of 20 percent on donations requested for religious services at Churches of Scientology.

12. Discount of 20 percent on Church of Scientology bookstore items.

13. Discount of 50 percent on "I Want To Go OT" Club membership fee.

Representative documentation is attached as Exhibit II-9-A.

Question 9

e. la membership in IAS solicited at or through the auspices of any Scientology-related organizations? If so,, please describe the method of solicitation, any documentation regarding the solicitation, and the period of time during which such solicitations have occurred.

Scientologists who are members of the IAS encourage fellow Scientologists to join the Association wherever they come in contact/ including Churches of Scientology. In addition, Church staff members, all of whom are IAS members, encourage new parishioners to join the IAS on an introductory basis. The IAS offers a free six-month introductory membership to all Scientologists.

Since the formation of the IAS in 1984 and its recognition by CSI as the official membership association of the Church of Scientology, CSI has encouraged all Scientology-related organizations to help expand the membership of the IAS. CSI has done this in a variety of ways, including sponsoring membership drives, issuing policy statements regarding membership, and directing all Churches of Scientology to include a "membership officer" on staff. The membership officer ordinarily assumes this title as part of another staff position in the Church and is the individual Scientologists can contact for information about the IAS and membership applications. Churches of Scientology around the world often place advertisements in their local Scientology publications promoting membership in the IAS.

The only documentation used in soliciting members to the IAS are Membership application forms, a copy of which was provided in response to question 9a, above. IAS applications are not submitted to Churches of Scientology. They are forwarded directly to the IAS for acceptance.

Question 9

d. Are donations to or for the benefit of IAS solicited at or through the auspices of any Scientology-related organizations? If so/ please describe the method of solicitation, provide documentation regarding the solicitation, and describe the period of time during which such solicitations occurred.

Donations above the amount of the annual and lifetime membership dues are in almost all cases solicited by the Membership Tours (discussed at page 2 of the supplemental letter from Monique Yingling regarding IMU). The Membership Tours generally do not solicit donations on the premises of Churches of Scientology, however, such contact may occur as some Membership Tours have office space located in Churches of Scientology. Neither CSI staff nor the staff of other Scientology-related organizations is ordinarily involved in the solicitation of such donations.

Question 9

0. Does any Scientology-related organization provide (or in the past provided) office space or staff for, or directly or indirectly pay expenses (or subsidize the costs) of, any solicitations for membership in or donations to IAS?

As discussed in the response to $^{H}c^{w}$ above, at the direction of CSI, Churches of Scientology generally have a "membership officer" who provides information on the IAS to Church parishioners.

Membership Tours with office space located in Churches of Scientology generally pay rent to the Church for the space used. The Membership Tour for Germany has paid rent to the Church of Scientology Munich since 1990. We have been unable to ascertain whether the Munich Church charged any rent in earlier years. The Denmark Membership Tour has paid rent for the office space it uses in the Danish Church for the last 18 months. Before that time, we understand there was no rent charged by the Church. The Italy Membership Tour (located in the Milan Church) has recently paid rent. Until recently, no rent was charged by the Milan Church. The Clearwater Membership Tour has always paid rent to Church of Scientology Flag Service Organization for the space it uses. The Swiss Membership Tour has always paid rent to the Church in Zurich. The United Kingdom Membership Tour, Canada Membership Tour, and Japan Membership Tour, have also paid rent. The Church of Scientology in New York provides a small work room for the Membership Tour of the Eastern United States at no charge when that Tour is in New York. The Western United States Membership Tour does not use space on Church property.

Question 9

f. Does IAS have (at present or in the past) any direct or indirect relationship, financial or otherwise/ to the ownership or operation of the M.v. Freewinds, or any entity related to the ownership or operation of the ship? Please include in your response the role, if any, of IAS in purchasing or financing of the M.V. Freewinds.

The IAS was involved in the initial fund raising for the search and purchase of an ocean-going motor vessel to be used as a religious retreat for Scientologists, The IAS directly sponsored this project from late 1984 to early 1986. In early 1986, this project was assumed by the Flag Ship Trust. The IAS fully funded the costs of the ship project throughout 1985 and 1986, In addition, between 1985 and 1988, the IAS paid fundraising commissions and some operating costs of the Ship Project. The amounts expended by the IAS with respect to the Ship Project are as follows:

1985	$ 26,477.00
1986	$ 746,630.00
1987	$ 543,565.00
1988	$ 42,207.00

IAS Administrations currently operates aboard the M.V. Freewinds and pays rent on a weekly basis to Majestic Cruise Lines for the space occupied.

Question 9

h. Please describe CSI's recognition of IAS as the sole worldwide membership organization for Scientology parishioners, is there any written agreement or other document regarding this recognition? If so, please provide a copy. Otherwise, please provide a description regarding such recognition, including the terms of any oral agreement • Has CSI or any other Scientology-related organization recognized any membership organization, e«g, country-wide or continent-wide membership organizations (other than DAS or EAS)? If so, please list and describe*

After the IAS was formed and had stated its purpose "To unite, advance, support and protect Scientology and Scientologists in all parts of the world so as to achieve the aims and purposes of Scientology," CSI determined to support the IAS fully in its crusade and the fight for religious freedom. CSI elected to recognize membership in the IAS as the official membership for its parishioners,

CSI and the former Mother Church of the Scientology religion, Church of Scientology of California, previously recognized the Hubbard. Association of Scientologists International ("HASI") as the official membership of the Church. Lifetime members of HASI receive the same benefits the Church extends to IAS members.

In addition to DAS and EAS there are other national Scientology membership associations required by local laws. For example, the Church of Scientology in Germany is a membership association.

Relevant documentation regarding CSI's recognition of IAS as the official membership organization of Scientologists is attached as Exhibit II-9-D.

Question 9

i. Does IAS use any intangible or intellectual property, including any trademarks, service marks, logos, copyrights/ patents, or other property that is owned by any Scientology-related organization? Please separately indicate which, if any of this property is owned by Estate of L. Ron Hubbard, Authors Family Trust or Author Services, Inc. If IAS uses property, does IAS pay for such use?

CSI's trademark counsel has advised that the IAS does not "use" the Scientology trademarks or service marks: "Technically, the IAS does not use any of the trademarks or service marks of Religious Technology Center. The word "use" is a technical word in the trademark law (15 U.S.C Section 1127) and does not include mere references to the marks in [the] magazine, IMPACT, and other literature." RTC$_r$ the owner of the Scientology religious marks, has never licensed IAS as a user of the marks. Relevant correspondence acknowledging IAS^r s reference to the marks in its literature is attached as Exhibit II-9-E.

IAS regularly reprints portions of the Scientology Scriptures that are copyrighted and owned by the Author's Family Trust in IMPACT magazine and other literature. The Trustee has acknowledged copyrighted materials are used by the IAS, but never required a license or payment for such limited use.

Question 9

c. Describe the role, if any, that Scientology-related organisations played in the creation and start-up of IAS, including but not limited to, any financial or facility support.

At the time the IAS was formed in 1984, Scientologists in the United States and around the world found themselves under attack because of their religious beliefs. Believing that there might come a time when Scientology was so oppressed they would no longer be able to continue to practice and disseminate the religion of Scientology, individual Scientologists founded the Association in order to assure the survival of their religion and to guarantee that Scientology could be practiced for all time. To this end, the IAS Constitution provides that the Association shall not take any action which would subject it to the jurisdiction of any country which tolerates the oppression of any religion. Thus, the IAS is constituted as an unincorporated association of individual Scientologists from around the world. It is because the IAS guarantees the future of Scientology that individuals support the Association both financially and through membership activities.

. The IAS was formed in October 1984 at the initiative of individual Scientologists who were parishioners of the Church of Scientology Advanced Organization Saint Hill for Europe & Africa (AOSH EU) located in Denmark. AOSH EU communicated the idea for the IAS to other Scientology Churches in Europe and America and to CSI who accepted it with enthusiasm. AOSH EU then sent out an invitation, along with a draft Constitution for the IAS, to twenty Churches of Scientology around the world requesting that Delegates be sent to the United Kingdom to convene the Founding Convention of the IAS on October 7 and 8, 1984. These individuals became the founding members of the IAS, approved and adopted its Constitution and signed the Pledge to Mankind.

AOSH EU paid some DKr 400,000 to cover expenses of some of the founding members who traveled to the UK, and to organize the event in England. Other Churches of Scientology around the world also paid expenses of Delegates to the Convention. Church of Scientology Flag Service Organization helped to defray the expenses of an event held in Florida in October 1984 to introduce the IAS to US parishioners* Similiar events were sponsored by other Churches of Scientology around the world.

The following expenditures need not be listed: (i) expenditures to individuals of the aggregate payment to the individual and his or her family members does not exceed $10,000 over the entire period under discussion; and (ii) expenditures to a particular Scientology-related organization if the aggregate payment to the organization does not exceed $50,000 over the entire period tinder discussion.

PAYMENTS TO INDIVIDUALS OF $10,000 OR MORE

The IAS pays fundraising commissions to individual Scientologists around the world who help raise funds for the Association by soliciting new members and donations. For the most part, the only affiliation these individuals have with Scientology-related organizations is the fact that they are Scientologists. However, Church staff may also receive commissions from the IAS. Neither CSI nor any other Scientology-related organization had information regarding the payment of commissions to individual Scientologists in its possession. In order to provide a complete response to this question, CSI requested this information of the IAS.

In addition to the fundraising commissions, above, paid directly to individual Scientologists, the IAS transferred amounts during the relevant periods to IMU, IASA, TML and MSA for payment of commissions to Membership Tours. The amounts paid to Membership Tours reflect gross amounts from which the tours paid their expenses of operations, staff, travel, etc. The payments to the tours were as follows:
